

User Acceptance Test Plan For the Admin Section

The user acceptance Test plan is for a user to run through the test in the admin pages. This also includes for the user to take the time and give results back in which the developers can use to fix bugs in the code.

However there is not automated testing for the admin pages. In the future this will be added and in turn testing should become faster.

Here is a filled out version of the test gives a brief idea of the functions and buttons that the admin page should work.

Image will be at the back to compare the results to when one do these test
